Miguel Ángel Muñoz has been in the Mecca of the Film Industry for a few months now, trying his luck and getting good results. So far he has starred in the film What about love, together with Sharon Stone and Andy García, scheduled to premiere shortly. He also participated in the HBO series Capadocia, now in its third season, and which is broadcast in the United States. And finally, two of his films are due to premiere: Al final todos mueren (Eventually they all die) and Viral.

The actor, who became well known at a very young age in the series UPA Dance, is delighted with his US experience. This can be seen on his Twitter account where, incidentally, he did not stop uploading photos during his presence at the Independent Spirit Awards. There he rubbed elbows with the elite of the Mecca of the Film Industry like Bradley Cooper, Jennifer Lawrence, Helen Hunt, Matthew McConaughey and a long etcetera, who we will later see during the Oscar Ceremony.
